MORDHURST, Fort Wayne, Ind., General Grand Recorder. GEORGIA, 1912. Sixty-ninth Annual. MACON. April 23rd. J. B. ROBERTS, Grand Master. C. S. Maddox was there to represent Michigan. The Grand Master opens his address with the following sample of his philosophy: Masonry teaches fraternity; it teaches brotherhood; it teaches humanity; it teaches purity; it teaches high idea;ls.;of life, and the very highest type of civilization. It is educational and progressive, humanitarian and charitable in air its instincts and principles. It is the most perfect system of morality that the mind of man originated; the most faithful exposition of the duties man owes to himself, his neighbor, and his God, short of Divine revelation. It is the perfection of human wisdom--the reflection of beauty--the durability of strength; it is stamped with the immortality of truth, and imbued with the spirit of charity and benevolence. They have Grand Lecturers by Masonic Districts and the Grand Master appointed the same lecturers as before. He wrote letters to some brother in every town in the state where a council was once held and urged resuscitation and succeeded in resuscitating three. He also established one new council, which goes to indicate caputular Masonry is prospering. No decisions were asked for. He recommends that a companion having reached the age of seventy and a member for twenty years shall be exempt from paying dues. He figures there are about 90,000 council Masons in the United States and only about...
